VIRTUAL EVENTS + PERKS

See You Online
Although we can’t meet with you in person now, KQED and our partners are offering up lots of fascinating virtual events. Sink into your sofa and enjoy a screening, a listen or watch party and more. For the latest information, please visit kqed.org/events.

Dear Homeland Virtual Screening
August 12 at 6pm
Join us for an upcoming virtual preview screening of the new documentary Dear Homeland featuring Bay Area-based singer-songwriter Diana Gameros. Told in part through her hauntingly beautiful music, the film portrays an artist asserting her voice and fighting to define home for herself as an undocumented immigrant. For more information, visit kqed.org/events.

StoryCorps Virtual Tour
August 12–September 11
Have a poignant, funny or fascinating personal story to share? During a month-long virtual residency, StoryCorps will join KQED in celebrating the mosaic of Bay Area life by recording personal accounts of the everyday residents who are at its heart. Stories may be featured on air or online and all will be preserved at the Library of Congress. Appointments are limited. Learn more and sign up at storycorps.org/kqed.

Harbor from the Holocaust:
Film Preview and Discussion
Tuesday, August 25, at 6pm
Nearly 20,000 Jewish refugees fled Nazi-occupied Europe during World War II to the Chinese port city of Shanghai. Join KQED, PBS affiliate stations and community partners for a film preview and discussion of Harbor from the Holocaust. Explore acculturation through an intimate look at survivors’ family stories and shared recipes and take a broader historical view of Jews settling in other countries, too, as a result of the Holocaust. For more information, visit kqed.org/events.

New MindShift Podcast Season Explores How Classrooms Are Adapting to the Pandemic

The new school year is here; how can teachers, students and caregivers adequately prepare for the pandemic’s drastically changed learning environment and so much uncertainty? Enter the MindShift podcast. One of the most popular podcasts for parents and teachers, the series offers listeners an inside look at how schools are developing solutions to meet students’ needs in person and online.

Social bonds are essential to everyone, but how do you develop and maintain them from a physical distance? Hosts Ki Sung and Katrina Schwartz explore how educators and students are working to strengthen these bonds to create a strong foundation for in-person and online learning. Episodes also focus on how educators navigated the first semester of the coronavirus pandemic, what does and doesn’t work, and what they’ve learned. In addition, the episodes feature the voices of young people who share how this difficult time has affected their lives.

New episodes of the MindShift podcast are available every other Tuesday through September 8, free of charge, on Apple Podcasts, NPR One or wherever you get your podcasts or at kqed.org/mindshiftpodcast.

KQED Arts & Culture and Science Teams Win Emmy Awards for the Second Consecutive Year

KQED has been honored with two Northern California Emmy® awards by the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, which recognizes excellence in all fields of television and online production.

KQED Arts & Culture won an Emmy for “Portraits of Napa Workers: Arleene Correa Valencia” in the Public/Current/Community Affairs-Feature/Segment category. The video features Mexican artist Arleene Correa Valencia, who focuses on the resilience and tireless work ethic of her Latinx community. The episode is part of KQED Arts & Culture’s Represent series, which profiles artists who celebrate and uplift the experiences of their communities (Kelly Whalen, producer; Armando Aparicio, director/director of photography; Elie Khadra, editor).

KQED Science’s Deep Look won an Emmy Award for “The Curious Webspinner Insect Knits a Cozy Home” in the Health/Science/Environment-Feature/Segment category. The video explores how female webspinners build their shelter with super-fine silk from their feet. A collaboration between KQED Science and PBS, the Deep Look series explores some of nature’s biggest mysteries by going incredibly small (Gabriela V. Quiros, coordinating producer; Craig Rosa, series producer; Jenny Oh, producer/writer/editor; Joshua Cassidy, cinematographer; Kia Simon, editor/motion graphics; Seth Samuel, composer; Shirley Gutierrez, sound mix/video mastering).

In addition, KQED was nominated for: “Johnathan Calm Revisits ‘Green Book’ Locations in Search of America’s Past and Present” and “Deep Look: Kidnapper Ants Steal Other Ants’ Babies – and Brainwash Them.”

Come Through with Rebecca Carroll

Airs Saturdays in August at 9pm

The United States is at the beginning of a reckoning. Protests against police brutality continue nationwide and anti-racist activists are demanding change. Companies and institutions are being called upon to examine their roots in white supremacy and their complicity in upholding racist systems. And individual people are looking inward at their own biases and the ways in which they’ve been complicit in racism, too. It’s a time for hard truths and hard conversations about race, and how it seeps into every aspect of society and life. Join host Rebecca Carroll for this five-part series where she’ll hold essential conversations about race at this pivotal moment. Guests include Issa Rae, Don Lemon, Gabrielle Union, and Brittany Packnett Cunningham.

Older and Overlooked in Wildfire Country

Airs August 10-14 at 6:22am and 8:22am

California is ill-prepared to protect the lives of the growing population of elderly people who live in high-risk wildfire areas and the COVID-19 pandemic is making emergency preparedness even more difficult. Older and Overlooked in Wildfire Country is a KQED five-part radio and online series that takes an in-depth look at who’s vulnerable to the hazard of wildfire in long-term care homes and how counties and facilities are coping with that threat during a global pandemic. Using public records, our reporters analyzed more than eight thousand California nursing homes and assisted-living facilities for wildfire risk to determine how prepared long-term care homes are for disasters. The series is also available online at kqed.org/wildfires.

Are You Bay Curious? There’s a New Activity Book for That

Think you know a lot about the Bay Area — enough to unscramble the bridge names below? Test your mettle, then download the new Bay Curious Activity Book at kqed.org/activitybook, where you’ll find other puzzles, activities and a step-by-step guide for drawing a certain iconic bridge by KQED contributing cartoonist Mark Fiore. And be sure to tune in to KQED’s Bay Curious podcast series to discover lots of quirky-cool things about this place we call home. Bay Curious is available on Apple Podcasts, Google Play, Stitcher, the NPR One app, Spotify or wherever you get your podcasts.

Unscramble these words and discover the names of Bay Area bridges (the answers are upside-down below):

Staff Picks

Explore PBS’ Race in America Collection

Some of the most powerful films I’ve ever seen are available to stream now in PBS’ curated Race in America collection. With content from filmmakers including Stanley Nelson and Dr. Henry Louis Gates Jr., the collection includes Tell Them We Are Rising: The African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross; and Black America Since MLK: And Still I Rise. If you’re looking for somewhere to start, I highly recommend Gates’ Reconstruction: America After the Civil War, a four-part series. It explores the transformative years when the nation struggled to rebuild itself in the face of profound loss. It also focuses on how African Americans forged a new, more equal place in American social, economic and political life only to face the backlash of segregation, white supremacy and institutionalized discrimination, whose legacy persists today. — Meredith Speight, KQED Director of Television Programming

Bingeworthy

The first episode of Endeavour Season 7 premieres on Sunday, August 9, at 9pm on KQED 9. With KQED Passport, you can catch up with Endeavour Seasons 4 through 6 then binge the entire three-episode Season 7 starting the night of the broadcast premier.

Exclusive

Don’t miss the KQED Passport-exclusive BBC British detective series Whitechapel (a stylish East London crime show with a historical twist) and Moonstone (a fresh adaptation of a classic story). Both expire from KQED Passport on August 16.

British Sleuth Show Endeavour on Masterpiece Is Back for Season 7

I love British detective shows because they often leave out the gobs of gratuitous gore and violence you tend to see in American detective series. I’m no wimp; I’m just more partial to whodunit and why whodunit dunit, especially if it’s clever and plot-twisty.

That’s one of the reasons I’m a fan of Endeavour on Masterpiece, a prequel to Inspector Morse, which was reportedly viewed by 85 percent of the British public, including the queen. Endeavour takes us back in time to Morse's earlier life (this time in 1970). He’s a quirky, brainy loner who loves opera, classical music and ale. Working in Oxford alongside Detective Inspector Thursday, Morse chases murderers and solves crimes — in a most British sleuthy sort of way.

Season 7 kicks off with Morse at a Venice (where else?) opera house as the 1970 new year begins. There’s a murder in Oxford, Thursday is on it and Morse heads back to help him. Old friendships are strained and new ones formed. In Episode 2, two rival gangs clash. And in Episode 3, Morse investigates what appears to be a freak accident at a college, or is it? Catch Episode 1 on Sunday, August 9, at 9pm on KQED 9. If you’d rather binge all of Season 7 and you’re a KQED Passport member, you can stream the whole season the night it premiers on broadcast. —Ellyn Hament

SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIE
From Here to Eternity
Airs Saturday, August 1, at 8pm on KQED 9
You’ve probably seen the iconic kissing-in-the-surf scene on the right. Head to Hawaii, before the attack on Pearl Harbor, to see the entire epic story of From Here to Eternity. This 1953 Academy Award-winning film stars Montgomery Clift, Frank Sinatra, Deborah Kerr and Burt Lanchester.

Bletchley Circle – San Francisco
Monday, August 10, at 8:45 on KQED Plus
A period piece set during the 1950s, this show features expert female codebreakers who worked together during WWII. In this episode, Millie and Jean travel to our City by the Bay after learning about a murder that’s chillingly similar to one of a wartime colleague.

DID YOU KNOW?
• Kate Warne was an American law enforcement officer believed to be the first female detective in 1856.
• A master of disguise, Maude West founded a detective agency in England in 1905. She was London’s only female private detective at the time.
• In 1916, Georgia Ann Robinson reportedly became the first Black female police officer at the Los Angeles Police department; possibly the first in the U.S. She investigated juvenile and homicide cases and devoted her life to fighting against segregation and for women’s welfare.

A PLACE TO CALL HOME: SEASON THREE FINALE
Tuesday, August 25, at 8:55pm on KQED Plus
Tensions run high at Ash Park in the Season 3 series finale of this Australian period piece. An argument sends Anna home to her family, Douglas serves up an ultimatum, and a revelation about the baby sets off a chain of events with devastating consequences.
