KQED Members' Day at San Francisco Botanical Gardens

Friday, February 19

It's that time of year again! Join KQED at the San Francisco Botanical Garden (SFBG) to be amazed by one of San Francisco's great annual spectacles, as the most significant conservation collection of magnolias in the United States erupts with beautiful, fragrant blooms. Admission is free on Friday, February 19, for KQED members (up to two admissions total) who present a current KQED MemberCard and valid ID in person at the ticket booth. The day also includes special discounts on SFBG memberships, in the Bookstore and at the Plant Arbor.

Be Part of KQED's Next Chapter

KQED is in the final phase of a major transformation. It's a story that began more than a decade ago as we expanded from radio and television broadcasts to digital platforms. We envisioned a new era of serving you where, when and how you needed KQED in your life. To reach these goals, we launched Campaign 21, a strategic initiative to modernize our headquarters, expand public programs and educational services and invest in the reporters you rely on every day for trusted journalism on television, radio and digital platforms. Today, we've secured more than 95% of our financial goal.

KQED has one of the largest news teams on the entire West Coast. We're a team of specialized reporters in news, science and arts, and data journalism, and expert social media, engagement and event producers and an award-winning educational services team. New interview rooms, multiple modern studios linked to public spaces, additional edit suites, podcast studios and state-of-the-art technical infrastructure will support our team's creativity and production.

But the building isn't only about our service to the community. It's a place to engage with the community for the community. We've reimagined our home to be open and accessible so that people can connect with our journalists, our stories and each other. When we open the doors, we'll welcome neighbors to use our space and join in our work. In The Commons — one of the building's most anticipated new features — we'll host interactive events including town halls moderated by KQED journalists, screenings of national and local film documentaries plus conversations with the best talent from NPR and PBS. And most exciting, we'll be able to capture and distribute many of these events on television, radio and online for those who can't be with us in person.

All of these improvements are the tools we use in service of what's most important: ensuring you have the information you need to actively participate in a vigorous democracy.

To learn more about Campaign 21 and how you can be part of the next chapter of our story, contact the team at 415.553.8497, or visit kqed.org/campaign21.

KQED Forum Host Michael Krasny Retires

After a long and legendary career of nearly three decades on KQED Public Radio, Michael Krasny is retiring as host of Forum.

Krasny joined KQED and Forum in 1993 after working for ABC Radio and local television. He began his career in the 1970s as host of a weekly program on KTIM FM, a Marin county rock station. He has a successful academic and literary career teaching English at San Francisco State University. He's also taught at Stanford, USF, and UCSF. He's the author of several books, including Off Mike: A Memoir of Talk Radio and Literary Life, and Let There Be Laughter: A Treasury of Great Jewish Humor and What It All Means. He's also won many prestigious awards for his broadcasting, writing and scholarship.

Krasny thanks "all of the listeners, guests and exceptional colleagues I've had the great fortune to encounter over the years as host of Forum." He looks forward to spending time with his family, including his first grandchild, and focusing on writing and exploring other opportunities. His last day as host will be February 12. Please join us at 9am that day on KQED 88.5 FM and share your Forum memories with us on air.

PODCASTS

What are the best podcasts to listen to right now? We asked Pendarvis Harshaw, host of KQED's Rightnowish podcast and a columnist for KQED Arts & Culture, what he recommends. Here are his picks.

STARTER EPISODE

"Endless Winter: A Fresh Look at the Donner Party Saga"

KQED's Bay Curious podcast team takes a great look at American history. It's not only a chance to learn about the content, but also an opportunity to learn about storytelling mechanisms. The reveals, the suspense and the tone in which the story is told really works to drive the narrative home.

STARTER EPISODE

"The Day The Mixtape Died: DJ Drama"

Louder Than a Riot looks at the intersection of hip-hop and the justice system. "The Day The Mixtape Died: DJ Drama" asks: How could someone who was putting one person's lyrics over another's beats face federal charges and have all his assets seized? The other episodes are anger-inducing because of racism or other systemic issues. This one is law enforcement going above and beyond — for no reason.

STARTER EPISODE

"The Zambian Space Program"

This Useless Information story is so wild and absurd it makes you question if they're doing this to clown the person in the piece. Right before you're ready to send an angry tweet to the producer and editor, they reveal that it was a ploy by the main character and American media fell for it. It makes you question what other ploys you've fallen for.

Staff Picks

As a singer, dancer, activist, poet and writer, Maya Angelou inspired generations with lyrical modern Black thought that pushed boundaries. American Masters — Maya Angelou: And Still I Rise is a beautiful film that follows Dr. Angelou's incredible journey, shedding light on the untold aspects of her life through never-before-seen footage, rare archival photographs and videos and her own words. From her upbringing in the Depression-era South and her early performing career to her work with Malcolm X in Ghana and her many writing successes, explore hidden facets of her life, many during America's most defining moments. You can catch this film, one of my favorite American Masters episodes, on KQED 9 on Friday, February 19. But, you don't have to wait; you can watch it over and over again (at least until it expires from the library on February 22) on KQED Passport. Don't miss the footage from the 1968 series Dr. Angelou wrote and produced for KQED: Blacks, Blues, Black!

Bingeworthy

Walter's Choice is a curated collection of award-winning international dramas chosen by a television connoisseur who searches worldwide for the most interesting shows. Binge Seasons 1 and 2 of MODUS, a psychological thriller in Swedish with English subtitles, before they expire on February 12.

Exclusive

Binge the new six-episode season of Seaside Hotel (another Walter's Choice pick). A Danish period drama, it takes place from 1928–33 at a hotel as the world hurtles in a disastrous direction. Note: This program will only be available for streaming with KQED Passport, there is no free video-on-demand streaming.

Henry Louis Gates Jr. Turns His Lens on the Black Church in America

If you're like me, you're a huge fan of Finding Your Roots, the PBS show hosted by historian Dr. Henry Louis Gates, who digs into celebrities' genealogical roots and connects people with their families, with historical context, and with the stories of other people featured on the show. This February, Gates, a professor, the author or co-author of 24 books and the creator of 21 documentaries, takes on an entirely new topic. "I've spent my career telling stories about Black life, but there's one I've never told. And it might be the most important one of all. It's the remarkable history of the Black church," he notes.

His new documentary — The Black Church: This Is Our Story, This Is Our Song — airs in two parts on February 16 and February 23 at 9pm on KQED 9.

In Part 1, Gates explores the roots of African American religion beginning with the trans-Atlantic slave trade and the extraordinary ways enslaved Africans preserved and adapted their faith practices to endure the brutality of slavery until emancipation. Part 2 focuses on how the Black church expanded its reach to address social inequality and minister to those in need, from the Jim Crow South to the heroic phase of the Civil Rights movement and the Black church's role in the present.

It's a comprehensive and important story you may not know about. Be sure to tune in, beginning on February 16 and again on February 23, as he explores the power of faith, the importance of community and the sublime music and musicians.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The Third Baptist Church of San Francisco was founded in 1852 as the First Colored Baptist Church and was the first African American Baptist church west of the Rockies. Slavery was still in existence at the time.
- Paul Robeson was one of several people who sang at San Francisco's Third Baptist Church. Along with spirituals, he also performed classical music and the Jewish Kaddish.
- Oakland's First African Methodist Episcopal Church, the oldest African American Church there, also served as a school for children of color because all other schools were for whites only. —Kirsten Voss

COMING IN MARCH

American Masters: Twyla Tharp

Saturday, February 13, at 8pm on KQED 9

An icon of both modern dance and ballet, Tharp dances into the spotlight in this new documentary: American Masters: Twyla Tharp. She shares intimate details about her rigorous creative process, her cinematic partnership with Miloš Forman and her wildly successful Broadway career.

SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIE

Best in Show

Saturday, February 13, at 8pm on KQED 9

Don't miss the wickedly hilarious mockumentary (fake documentary) Best in Show (2000), a spoof of American dog shows. Eugene Levy, Catherine O'Hara, Fred Willard, Jane Lynch and others play dog people obsessed with winning the show. Written by Christopher Guest with improvised moments, it's just what you need during, ahem, ruff times.

American Experience: Voice of Freedom

► Monday, February 15, at 9pm on KQED 9

Barred from performing in Constitution Hall because of her race, Marian Anderson sang outside the Lincoln Memorial on Easter Sunday in 1939. Although her voice was widely celebrated by audiences at home and hailed by maestros in Europe as one that comes around once in a hundred years, Marian still suffered from the indignities and violence of racism and segregation.

Waging Change

► Friday, February 19, at 8pm on KQED 9

Under federal law, restaurant workers are paid a "tipped minimum wage" — just $2.13/hour — leaving them with huge financial challenges made much worse by the pandemic. In this award-winning documentary featuring Lily Tomlin, Jane Fonda, Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez and Saru Jayaraman, servers and bartenders share their stories and struggles to be paid a fair minimum wage.

Independent Lens: Mr. SOUL!

► Sunday, February 22, at 10pm on KQED 9

Step back into 1968 when producer Ellis Haizlip created a historic public television variety show for Black audiences that celebrated the breadth of Black culture — from music to politics to poetry. For five years, the series Mr. SOUL! featured both icons and the up and coming, often pairing people in unexpected ways (think Amiri Baraka's poetry and Pharoah Sanders' music).

SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIES Gorillas in the Mist Saturday, February 20, at 8pm on KQED 9

Inspired by anthropologist Louis Leakey, Dian Fossey (Sigourney Weaver) devotes her life to studying rare mountain gorillas in the Congo and Rwanda. Her work gains international attention, but it eventually leads her into grave danger. This inspiring 1988 film was nominated for five Academy Awards.

Step Inside Bay Area African Restaurants in Dishes of the Diaspora

Premiering this month, KQED presents Dishes of the Diaspora, a new online series featuring African restaurants around the Bay Area. Come into the kitchen of restaurant owners, who share personal experiences, signature dishes and how they're persevering through the unprecedented challenges brought on by the pandemic.

These short videos explore the vulnerability of opening a restaurant as an immigrant as well as the risks and rewards of introducing unique flavors into a Western community. In Episode 1, meet Oumar Diouf, chef/owner of restaurant and food truck The Dame in Oakland, whose journey from Senegal to Brazil and then Oakland sparked a mission to share the tastes of his home with the world. To see full episodes, which go live beginning February 3, go to kqed.org/dishesofthediaspora.
