JANUARY LINEUP

A Royal Walk with the King Tides

Saturday, January 13, 1pm, Cooley Landing, 2100 Bay Rd., East Palo Alto

Join the Exploratorium, Climate Resilient Communities, and Grassroots Ecology for a stroll to observe, photograph and discuss the king tides. Find out what causes these exceptionally high tides and why we have them at this time of year. We'll be meeting rain or shine, so wear shoes that can get wet! There will be staggered walk times and interactive educational displays. This event is free, but registration is required. Offered in both English and Spanish.

Antojitos: Mission Street Bites

Thursday, January 18, 7pm, $15

Savor the vibrant flavors of Latinx street foods at an immersive tasting event. Featuring delights like esquites, tostilocos, mangoñadas and other treats, the event will focus on foods with a distinctive local twist. Join us to celebrate the cultural roots of some of these tasty staples and honor the resilience of street vendors working to make their small businesses thrive.

Fantastic Fungi with Deep Look

Wednesday, January 24, 7pm, $20

Which organisms, distinct from both animals and plants, belong to a kingdom all their own? Mushrooms! Discover the fascinating world of fungi in this special event with KQED's Deep Look wildlife series. Meet naturalists, scientists, a psychedelics innovator and renowned Bay Area mushroom chefs. Learn about the notorious death cap, the bird's nest fungi and more with Deep Look producer Gabriela Quirós, who unveils the challenges of filming these unique organisms. And bring along your own foraged fungi for expert identification, and leave with special mushroom recipes to try at home!

MEMBER EVENT

Designing Peace at the Museum of Craft and Design

Free Sunday admission for KQED members through February 4

Exploring the unique role design can play in pursuing peace, this exhibition features projects from around the world. Organized by Cooper Hewitt, Smithsonian Design Museum, the exhibition looks at ways to create and sustain more durable peaceful interactions. Bring your KQED membership card for free Sunday admission. sfmcd.org/exhibitions/designing-peace.

KQED's On Our Watch Investigative Podcast Debuts New Season, New Focus

In 2021, Season 1 of KQED's blockbuster podcast series On Our Watch took an unsettling look into the world of police misconduct. Over the course of that season, the On Our Watch team served hundreds of public records requests and successfully sued the California Highway Patrol, the California Department of Justice and BART to uncover police misconduct records. The podcast had a significant impact. In the months after the podcast aired, two statewide bills passed, expanding access to public records and creating a process to strip an officer of certification after conviction or termination for a serious crime.

Now, in Season 2, the focus is on California prisons. Host Sukey Lewis will guide listeners through one of the most dangerous prisons in the country: New Folsom prison near Sacramento. Each of the seven episodes traces the story of two correctional officers who work in an elite unit at New Folsom and the price they pay for reporting corruption and abuse by their fellow prison officers. With unprecedented access to disciplinary records, Lewis and her team obtained and analyzed hundreds of documents, audio recordings and videos that have never been released or seen before. The analysis of these materials from the state's more than 30 prisons reveals how impervious California's prison system is to reform efforts and how rarely correctional officers are held responsible for injuring and even killing people in their custody.

Season 2 of On Our Watch tells a story about broken promises, unwritten rules and how a system that is supposed to keep us safe is instead bent on protecting itself. Not to be missed, Season 2 launches on Tuesday, January 23, and drops weekly through Tuesday, March 5. Dive into this provocative series (and listen to other On Our Watch seasons) at kqed.org/onourwatch or wherever you get your podcasts.

RADIO

Political Breakdown Daily

The balloons dropped, the champagne popped, the clock rolled over and, just like that — it's an election year. And what a doozy of a year it stands to be. One of the leading presidential candidates is facing 91 charges in four different criminal cases; California will elect a new U.S. senator after the death of Dianne Feinstein; and the San Francisco mayoral race comes amid widespread dissatisfaction with the economics and direction of the city's governance. KQED gets you ready for all of this with a major expansion of Political Breakdown with co-hosts Marisa Lagos and Scott Shafer. The program shifts to a daily schedule in January, with analysis to air each weekday afternoon during All Things Considered. This means you'll get a fresh new podcast in your feed each day and can still rely on the great conversations of the Thursday evening show. So whether you're all-in on the presidential election or only care about the local stuff, Political Breakdown will be here each day to break it down.

Political Breakdown Daily launches on January 8. Hear it weekday afternoons during All Things Considered and Thursdays at 6:30pm on KQED 88.5 FM or on the KQED streaming App. Or, find it wherever you get your podcasts.

PODCASTS

Did you know you can listen to KQED whenever and wherever you want?

What are podcasts?

Podcasts are like taking the radio with you anywhere you go and listening to your favorite shows whenever you want. They've been around since the early 2000s but have really become more prominent in the last couple of years — and KQED has some of the best! Whether you're curious about the Bay Area's hidden stories (Bay Curious), interested in the future of learning (MindShift), like to stay connected to California's diverse issues (The California Report) or want to explore something else, KQED has got you covered.

How do I listen?

Most people listen on their phones or in their cars. There are podcast apps that come already installed on every phone. On iPhone, it's simply called "Podcasts," and on Android, it's "Google Podcasts." A lot of people choose to listen on other apps such as Spotify too!

Here's how to get started:

1. Open your podcast app of choice.
2. Search for your favorite KQED podcast or radio show or simply type in KQED.
3. Choose an episode that strikes your interest, and enjoy!

Don't Miss This

All Creatures Great and Small, Season 4

I think that All Creatures Great and Small is the perfect way to relax after a hectic holiday season — and I can't wait to do just that when Season 4 comes out this January. The stakes may be higher now, as the war hits closer to home for the veterinary clinic, but there is still plenty of joy to be found in Darrowby. Characters find love and community with each other and, of course, find comfort with their beloved animals. I know I always watch with my own dog, Whiskey, snuggled close. Passport members can watch the whole fourth season on January 7, the night of the broadcast premiere. Or, start catching up on all previous seasons now.

Bingeworthy

The Brokenwood Mysteries

This charming yet deadly New Zealand mystery follows DI Mike Shepherd and DC Kristin Simms as they solve puzzling murder cases in the otherwise cozy town of Brokenwood. Armed with sharp wit and a 1971 sedan, the duo discover secrets and suspects at every turn. The series returns to KQED Plus on December 23, but Passport members can binge seasons 1 and 2 now!

'60s Mysteries

Ms. Fisher's Modern Murder Mysteries

In this spin-off to the popular mystery series, Phryne Fisher's long-lost niece decides to follow in her aunt's stylish footsteps as a lady detective for a new era, investigating murders in 1960s Melbourne. Binge the series on Passport now, or catch the broadcast premiere Monday, January 8, on KQED Plus.

Funny Woman

Sunday, January 7, at 10pm on KQED 9

As the '60s are reaching their peak, beauty queen Barbara Parker is crowned Miss Blackpool, but she is ready to take on more than a title and a sash. Following her dreams to London with plans of breaking into the male-dominated comedy scene, she confronts a reality far less sparkling than she envisioned.

SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIE

Sunset Boulevard

Saturday, January 13, at 10pm and Saturday, January 27, at 8pm on KQED 9

Named after the major street that runs through Hollywood, Sunset Boulevard is a 1950 dark comedy/film noir classic. It follows Joe Gillis (William Holden), an out-of-work screenwriter, who attaches himself to Norma Desmond (Gloria Swanson), a tragically deluded former silent-film star attempting to make a comeback.

New Chilean Drama Tells the Tale of Two Brothers

Thrilling, high-stakes dramas are always on my must-watch list, especially if they navigate complicated relationships and romantic triangles and leave me on the edge of my seat. But when a new drama is also an exploration of societal structures, class conflicts, political upheavals and searches for identity, it becomes my viewing priority. And such is the case with KQED's first Spanish-language drama from Latin America, Hijos del Desierto (Sons of the Desert).

The story begins with the 1907 Santa María School massacre, a murderous event incited by the Chilean government against thousands of striking mine workers. In the chaos, two brothers — our protagonists — are forcibly separated; one goes on to a life of privilege, the other is raised on the streets.

Thirty years later, now on opposite sides of the law, the brothers, still unknown to each other, are each fighting for the power and freedom they believe in — and they are both in love with the same woman.

Personally, I can't wait to immerse myself in the drama and watch all 10 episodes sans English subtitles. Now almost a full year into my Spanish studies, I'm confident that I can follow the complex twists and turns in this saga without any translation. Or, I'll get to watch it twice! Be sure to tune into Hijos del Desierto on Thursday, January 4, at 9:30pm on KQED 9.

DID YOU KNOW? KQED's Latinx Initiative

- In 2022, KQED launched a Latinx initiative to provide content that speaks to the interests and needs of the 15.6M Latinx people in California.
- Our dedicated Instagram Page — KQED en Español — publishes current news stories in Spanish.
- In the past year, nearly 30 percent of KQED's live events featured onstage guests who identify as Latinx.

COMING IN FEBRUARY

Gospel

Check your February issue for air dates and times

This latest history series from Henry Louis Gates Jr. delves into the origins of Black spirituality through sermon and song. Throughout four episodes, the series examines Black gospel music and preaching, signifying the symbiosis of words and song and how it serves as an outlet for anger amidst oppression.

Paul Hollywood Goes to Hollywood

► Thursday, January 4, at 8pm on KQED Plus

Join celebrity chef Paul Hollywood (The Great British Baking Show) as he indulges in three of his greatest passions — bikes, movies and baking — and hits the road on an epic adventure from New York to Los Angeles. Riding a customized Harley-Davidson in this series that's part-travelogue, part-pilgrimage, he explores the connection between film and food.

Independent Lens: Racist Trees

► Monday, January 22, at 10pm on KQED 9

Next to a golf course in Palm Springs is Crossley Tract, a historically Black neighborhood hidden in plain sight. It's flanked by invasive 60-foot tamarisk trees that were planted in the 1960s, and its view of the San Jacinto mountains is blocked, preventing homeowners from accumulating wealth in their property.

American Experience: Nazi Town USA

► Tuesday, January 23, at 9pm on KQED 9

This revealing film uncovers the German American Bund, a nationwide organization of American Nazis in the 1930s who believed European fascism and Nazism could've and should've been emulated in the United States. The film traces the Bund's rise and fall and examines Americans' continued support of right-wing organizations in the aftermath.

The Addams Family

Saturday, January 13, at 8pm and Saturday, January 20, at 10pm on KQED 9

This 1991 dark comedy film follows the bizarre and eccentric aristocratic Addams family led by patriarch Gomez Addams (Raul Julia), who laments the 25-year absence of his brother Fester. When a man claiming to be Fester (Christopher Lloyd) arrives at their home, the family's thrilled, but Gomez's wife, Morticia, (Anjelica Huston) suspects he's a fraud.

THE FUTURE OF PUBLIC MEDIA IS IN YOUR HANDS.

WILL YOU RISE TO THE CHALLENGE?

The KQED of tomorrow needs the KQED members of today, like you, to invest in the future of public media. With the KQED Legacy Challenge, your pledge for the future — through a gift in your will or other estate plan — will generate an immediate matching gift. To unlock a matching gift that supports current KQED programs, simply share a few details about your future gift by visiting www.kqed.org/legacychallenge or by contacting KQED's gift planning team at legacy@kqed.org or 415.553.2230. Your legacy can enrich our communities and sustain fact-based journalism for generations to come.
